*"Fog in November, trees have no heads,
Streams only sound, walls suddenly stop
Halfway up hills, the ghost of a man spreads
Dung on dead fields for next year's crop.
I cannot see my hand before my face,
My body does not seem to be my own,
The world becomes a far-off, foreign place,
People are strangers, houses silent and unknown."*

Notes from St Margaret's

As memories of the First World War centennial fade we will soon recall the 80th anniversary of the beginning of World War Two.

However, for us it may be the time to reflect on the powerful images of the appalling effects of current global warfare.

In November, our church celebrates our Patron, St Margaret of Scotland; there is to be a special joint service with our sister church, St Mary's, Newport on Sunday 17 November. I look forward to seeing you all there.

Best Wishes, Margaret Gray

They shall not grow old, as we that are left grow old:

Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.

At the going down of the sun and in the morning

We will remember them.

St Margaret's Mission Statement
